HOR.

Enough, Great Jove, the Thunder of thy Hand
Has rous'd the startled Realm, and shook the Land.
Th' Imperial Eagle droop'd, and Britain mourn'd, Expecting universal War return'd.

SIR,

EWIS XIV. form'd the Plan of Universal Monarchy, and cantoned out the Kingdoms of Europe among his numerous Progeny; nor is it to be conceived how a Design, great as his, could possibly have miscarried, if the Plenitude of his Power had not made him over-look some Advantages; for I think it is generally allowed by Historians, that he had the Game in his own Hands.

If we look back to those Times, when the Duke of Augs, a Grandson of France, ascended the Throne of Spain and the Indies, by the famous Will of Cardinal Portocarrero, upon the Death of Charles II. the Grand Monarch was in his full Zenith of Glory. The unrivalled March (as it was justly stiled) of the Duke of Marlborough from the Moselle to the Danube, was generally regarded in Europe as the last Effort that could possibly be made. The Elector of Bavaria had joined the French, and seized upon the Cities of Augsburg, Ulm, and even Ratisbon itself, the Rendezvous of the Imperial Dyet, and threatened the Capital of the Empire with a Siege. The Village of Blenheim is in the very Centre of all Germany, and the Victory the Duke of Marlborough obtained upon the Banks of the Danube, saved the House of Austria from immediate Destruction, which occasioned the following Distich:

Germanos, Gallos, Bavaros, bellantibus Anglis, Servavit, vicit, perdidit una dies.

THE Battles of Ramilles and Turin in the Year 1706, increased the Triumphs of the Allies, and made the Names of Churchill and Eugene famous throughout Europe. The Netherlands revolted from the French Yoke; the Duke of Savoy was delivered, and all the Spanish Dominions in Italy evacuated to the Conqueror.

AGAIN, the Confederate Generals gathered fresh Laurels in the Plains of Oudenarde, Wymendale and Blenheim, the last of which Victories laid the Foundation of the Conferences at Gertruydenbergh, which would, in all Probability, have been attended with Success, if the Allies, flush'd with Conquest, had not insisted upon the Restitution of the whole Spanish Monarchy, as a Preliminary Article.

BUT this is not to be wondered at, when we consider the dangerous Conjunction of those Days. The Liberties of Europe were then in the utmost Danger: The Protestant Succession, upon which those Liberties depended, had not then taken Place, and the Depressions of France was esteemed alike by Friends and Foes, as the only effectual Expedient that could be thought of to secure the Investiture of that Succession to the Royal Line of Brunswick, because no other Power but France could possibly defeat it, and her Engagements were sufficiently known.

THE Spirit of the Whigs beat high for Glory, and for Liberty; they carried on the War with Vigour and Chearfulness; their demand was unquestionably well-grounded, and the Court of France must certainly have complied therewith, if the Duke of Marlborough had been suffered to go on one Campaign longer: Then the Peace of Europe had been fixed upon a lasting Foundation indeed, and the towering Projects of the House of Bourbon would have infested the World no more.

It is however, in vain to lament that lost Opportunity, the only use we can make of looking back to past Events, is to warn our Countrymen of being twice deceived by the same Men, and also to gather the best Lights we are able, for the Regulation of our Conduct in time to come.

Now besides the Restitution of the whole Spanish Monarchy, two other very important Alterations might have been made in the Disposition of the Conquered Countries, upon a successful Conclusion of the War.

FIRST, The Electorate of Bavaria might have been left in the Hands of the Emperor, that Elector being totally dispossessed of his Country by the Battle of Hochlat. This would have greatly contributed to the Security of the Peace of Christendom, in Regard that Prince, by the Situation of his Country, lies under great Temptations of joining with the French, and thereby proves a very dangerous Member of the Ger-manial Body.

SECONDLY, The Duke of Savoy might have been induced to make a Bargain with the Emperor, and to exchange his Duchies of Savoy and Piedmont, for the Kingdoms of Naples and Sicily, which would have been more than an Equivalent, and also more conveniently situated for both Parties.

THUS the Keys of France and of Italy would have been put into safe Hands. The Emperor could not then have been surprized by an unexpected Invasion, nor would the Princes of the House of Savoy be obliged, at every Turn, to enter into a War, whenever France and the Emperor fall out.

It is a vast Inconvenience for any Prince to have a small Country lying between two such formidable Rivals. It becomes of Course the Seat of the War; and if either of the contending Potentates should make large Conquests upon the other, his Dominions would very probably be thrown into the Victor's Scale.

THE Allotment of Bavaria, Savoy and Piedmont, to the Emperor, would, in my poor Opinion, have been of greater Value than even Spain and the Indies; and if those Distributions of Power had been considered at that Time, a very advantageous Peace might have been concluded, even supposing Spain and the Indies had been yielded to King Philip.

MAY not something of this Nature be proposed at Present? What do you think of negotiating an Exchange with the Elector of Bavaria, and of giving him Mantua, Milan, Parma and Placentia, in lieu of his Electorate (to be settled upon the Duke of Lorain) and the Duchy of Tuscany, after the Death of the Grand Duke, upon whose Demise the Duchies of Mantua and Milan, should revert to the Emperor; or otherwise that the King of Sardinia should have Milan, Parma, Placentia and Tuscany, in lieu of the Duchies of Savoy and Piedmont?

I am, Sir, your humble Servant,

Lincoln's Inn.

WM. PRYNN.

THE King of Spain lately performed the Ceremony of giving the Hat to the Cardinal Infante Don Lewis, his third Son by the second Venter, in Presence of all the Royal Family, the Grantees, Foreign Ministers, and other Persons of Distinction;
and after the Court returns to Madrid from the Pardo, he is to be installed a Knight of the Holy Ghost, of which Order he has been already nominated a Member by the French King. The same Letters add, that on the first of March, being her Britan-nick Majesty's Birth-day, Mr. Keen, the British Plenipotentiary at that Court, gave a magnificent Entertainment upon that Occasion, with a most splendid Dessert, at which Don Patinho, the Secretary of State, several Grantees, and all the Foreign Ministers at Court were present.

They write from Hanover, that in the late Riot by the Students of the University of Gottingen, the Person who killed the Watchman has received Sentence of Death; he that help'd the Assassin to make his Escape, is committed Prisoner, for a Year, to the House of Correction at Zell, a third Man is expelled from the University for two Years, and others are to suffer two Months Imprisonment, with no other Allowance but

Bread and Water. The Hanoverians began to despair of the Happiness of seeing the Princess of Saxe Gotha, who they heard was to come for London by the Way of Hesse Cassel. They were also under some Doubt, whether they should see his Britannick Majesty this Year, for these two Reasons. 1. Because M. de Bulau a Lord of his Bed-chamber, was gone with his Lady to England, which, say they, he would not have done, if he knew his Majesty intended to visit his German Dominions. 2. Because the Comedians at Hanover have obtained Leave to go for some Time to Paris.

Edinburgh, March 23. Yesterday, at a numerous Meeting of the Merchants in Town, trading to London, it was agreed, That ten Ships and no more, should be employed in that Trade; and that they should lye on for Goods 14 Days, and no longer, both at London and Leith; which cannot miss to establish a more regular Communication betwixt both these Places, than has ever hitherto obtained: The Names of the Ships and Masters are as follows, viz.

The Agatha and Jean,	Thomas Christie.
The Isabel and Mary,	John Haxton.
The Peter and Rachel,	Peter Angus.
The Glasgow Packet,	Richard Jermet.
The Providence of Leith,	Colin Champbell.
The New Catherine,	Francis Farquar.
	George Steel.
The Success,	John Dick.
The Providence of Borrostowness,	John Henderson.
	Robert Hamilton jun.

This Morning died the Rev. Mr. William Brown, one of the Ministers of the Gospel in this City. He was a Gentleman of a fine natural Disposition, an excellent Scholar, and a beautiful Preacher; and indeed was an Ornament in every Station wherein Providence plac'd him: a faithful Pastor, an agreeable Colleague, an affectionate Husband, a kind Friend, a human Master, and above all, a Gentleman of eminent Piety and prudent Behaviour: So that his Death is universally regretted, and is indeed a heavy Stroke to the Church, his Flock, Family, and Friends, being greatly belov'd and esteem'd by all. He was three Years Lecturer in the Trone Church, eight Years and a half one of the Ministers of South Leith, and fifteen Years and two Months one of the Ministers of this City. He died of a short Illness, in the 54th Year of his Age.

L O N D O N.

A few Days ago died suddenly, the Right Hon.
Randolph Plunket, Baron of Dunfany, at his Seat in the County of Meath, whose Father was Christopher Plunket, Baron of Dunfany, by the Sister of Randolph Macdonald Marquis of Antrim. He has left several Children by his Lady Elizabeth, who is Granddaughter to Sir John Fleming of Stackalmock. The Family from which he descended, was formerly called Plugenet, and came into England with the Danes, and from thence in the Reign of Henry II. into Ireland, where they seated themselves in the Counties of Dublin and Meath. The Earl of Fingal, and the Lord Louth are of the Family.

The Lord Paisly, eldest Son of the Earl of Abercorn in Scotland, and Lord Strabane in Ireland, is call'd up by Writ to the Irish House of Peers.

They write from Reading, that last Thursday se'nnight, one Joseph Mills, a Dragoon in Sir Robert Rich's Regiment, who was well in the Morning, kill'd himself that Day by drinking Geneva.

Last Week died of an Asthma, at Dublin, the Rt.
Hon. Frances Countess Dowager of Charles Livingstone
Earl of Newburgh in Scotland, Mother to John Lord Bellew of the Kingdom of Ireland (who in the Year 1731, marry'd a Daughter of the late Lord Nithdale) and Sister to the Rt. Hon. George Brudenel Earl of Cardigan. Her Corpse was carried yesterday se'nnight to be interr'd at Dunleek in the County of Meath.

Last Thursday se'nnight, Thomas Lord Bishop of Derry preach'd the first Charter Sermon at the Cathedral of Christ-Church Dublin, before the incorporated Society there, for promoting English Protestant Schools in that Kingdom, in pursuance of the Royal Charter granted by His Majesty a few Years ago for that Purpose. Most of the Archbishops and Bishops in Dublin were present at this Sermon, with several of the

the Clergy and Laity who are Members of the said Society, and many other Persons.

We hear from Newry, that on Saturday the 20th Inst. James Ray, Son of one John Ray a Tanner in Newry, having seen an Irish Country Girl, who had come into that Town to buy some Goods, he took a Liking to her, pick'd her up, and invited her to a Publick House, where he ply'd her well with Ale and Brandy. When he could not prevail on her to stay any longer, he would see her out of Town; and when he thought he had a convenient Place he attempted to ravish her, but could not effect it, she being strong, and making a brave Resistance. He finding his Endeavours frustrated, slit his Hand into his Pocket, took out his Pen-knife, and as she lay in Disorder, barbarously rip'd her up to the Navel, so that her Bowels came out. She lived to tell some Passengers the Story, and died on the Spot. We hear that after he had perpetrated his Villany, he fled and has not since been heard of.

The Rev. Dr. Swift, Dean of St. Patrick's, has been for some time past very bad; his Disorder has turn'd to an Ague, and it is now thought that he is somewhat better.

Monday last, the Assizes began at the Guild-hall, for the City of York, when James Cooke received Sentence of Death for Horse Stealing. And Joseph Dickinson was order'd to be whipp'd, for stealing two Quarts of Brandy from the Hosty at the George Inn. Four more Persons are to be try'd at the Assizes for the County, for Horse Stealing.

The Oratory Subjects To-morrow in the Morning, being Mid-lent Sunday, will be the History of Lent, the happy Compunction, or the Penitence of Magdalene, and Christ's Temptation forty Days in the Wilderness: In the Evening, the Noble Mason, or Divine Taste of Architecture, in respect to a Noble Peer and the Friends and Character of Mr. Hawksmore, Pupil to Sir C. Wren; the Cathedral, Palace, Bridge, &c. and a Publick Disputation, Mr. B. Opponent, Mr. H. Respondent, 'Whether the Mosaic Law of Tythes be now in Force, with an Eye to the Quakers Bill.'

N. B. This Poet fell under the heavy Censure of Richard Nykke, Bishop of Norwich, his Diocesan; especially for his Scoffs and ill Language against the Monks and Dominicans, in his Writings; in which also, reflecting on the Actions of Cardinal Wolley, he was so closely pursued by his Officers, that he was obliged to take Sanctuary at Westminster, where he was kindly entertained by John Illip the Abbot, and continued there to the Time of his Death. Erasmus, in an Epistle to King Henry VIII. after this Poet, Britannicarum Literarum Lumen & Decus, and of the like Opinion were many of his Time: Yet, the Generality saw, that his witty Discourses were biting, his Laughter approbrious and scornful, and his Jokes commonly sharp and reflecting. Truly prepared and sold at the Doctor's late Dwelling House, now Mr. DUTTON's in Salisbury Court, Fleet-street.

THIS Medicine restrains in a most surprising Manner, all internal as well as external Hemorrhages, i. e. it infallibly and quickly stops all dangerous Bleedings at the Nose or Gums, spitting or vomiting Blood; also the immoderate Flux of the Hemorrhoids or Menstrues, bloody Urine or Stools, bleeding of large Wounds, &c. (if used according to the plain Directions given with it) as will appear by the Certificates of several Eminent Physicians, and in the large Account of this Medicine, written by the Doctor himself, and dedicated to the College of Physicians a little before his Death.
It keeps good for many Years at Sea, or on Shore, at Home or Abroad, i. e. in all Climates, therefore must be universally Useful.
The Doctor not only obtained his Majesty's Letters Patent for the sole Vending of this most Excellent Medicine, but also a Clause in a late Act of Parliament, exempting this Medicine from the Inspection of the Censors of the College of Physicians, to which all other Medicines are liable.
N. B. Some of the Apothecaries prepare a Styptic from a Prescription of Helvetius, and use it in the Room of Dr. Eaton's; but whoever tries both, will soon be persuaded that Ours exceeds theirs in all Respects, in a most eminent Degree.
Sold, by Licence, at Garraway's Old Shop, Practical Scheme, at the Royal Exchange; Mr. R. Bradshaw's Warehouse behind the Royal Exchange; Mr. John Potter, Chymist, in Bartholomew Close; Mr. William Evans, Bookseller in Bristol; Mr. Hammond, Jun.
